4.01 Should you wish to provide details on the type of gender remuneration gap analysis that has been undertaken (for example like-for-like, organisation-wide), please do so below:
We look at male and female compa-ratios by business, job family, seniority and within like roles. We highlight any instances of female pay being lower than average male pay for the same role to the business 2 months prior to the remuneration review so they are addressed during the remuneration review. In the most recent pay equity review, compa-ratio analysis (where males and females are matched against the same roles) was 98%.

There is also a Significant Increase fixed pay pool we use to address critical issues such as gender pay equity. Additional budget is allocated to address this.

2 key initiatives were completed in the reporting period

1. Sponsorship of the WGEA Elevate Series

In partnership with UTS, utilising their design-thinking methodology, the Elevate Series delivered a series of workshops aimed at creating innovate solutions to gender equity in the workplace. Stockland sponsored this series with WGEA. WGEA is using the findings to shape their future projects/events and their education program.

2. Development Job Family Capability Framework and web-page

This Development job family project was established by the D&I Steering Committee in 2014, in response to seeking greater inclusion in the Development Job family, following feedback from female focus groups held in 2013.

From this beginning, it progressed into a broader career initiative with the following key aims;
- Highlight career progression and development opportunities across our asset classes and through the Development career ladder
- Grow the strength and flexibility of the Development talent pool
- Encourage those with diverse career backgrounds to pursue careers in development; and
- Increase female talent within the development job family.

The first stage delivered a Capability Framework to align core capability areas and stages of progression for Development roles, across our asset classes. The framework clearly highlights pre-requisite capabilities and those capabilities that can be acquired, for each career level. An intranet web page has been developed to house the framework, links to job opportunities, Yammer feeds, employee case studies and who to contact for more information. A training curriculum supporting the framework is underway.

We’ve had great feedback on the value of the framework and web-site, and a further two non-development females have progressed into the job family, since the launch of the framework.

Please refer to the 2014 WGEA Citation case-studies for further information.
