“I’d like to thank Simon for his significant contribution to Stockland, working across the Group to improve the quality and growth potential of our portfolio, driving customer and market research, and leading our communications with internal and external stakeholders. I wish Simon all the very best for the future,” said Mr Steinert.

As a result of Simon’s departure and consistent with the recent business review, Stockland will continue to streamline operations to deliver efficiencies by reallocating the Strategy, Stakeholder Relations and Research functions to other Group functions.
